

THE LITERARY SCIENTIST

A Multi-Disciplinary Journal for Literature and Science

CALL FOR CONTRIBUTIONS

Volume II, Issue I | 2026

ISSN (Online): 3048-7366

The Literary Scientist is a multilingual, multidisciplinary, peer-reviewed academic journal devoted to the intersections of Literature, Language, Science, Culture, and the Humanities. The journal seeks to bring together diverse modes of inquiry and encourage conversations that move beyond rigid disciplinary boundaries.

We invite scholarly and critical contributions engaging with the broad relationship between literature and science, as well as the linguistic, cultural, philosophical, technological, and social dimensions of literary and humanistic inquiry.

CONTRIBUTIONS ARE WELCOME ON, BUT ARE NOT LIMITED TO:

- ▶ Tiny Tales and Micro Literature as Mainstream Literature
- ▶ Environmental Humanities
- ▶ Medical Humanities / Neurohumanities
- ▶ Oral Narratives in the Contemporary World
- ▶ Subaltern Studies
- ▶ Evolution of Literature
- ▶ Intermediality in Literature
- ▶ Cultural Studies
- ▶ India as a Linguistic Area
- ▶ Multilingualism and Mother-Tongue Education
- ▶ Language of Literature
- ▶ Language and Indian Knowledge Systems
- ▶ Queer Studies
- ▶ Physics of Speech
- ▶ Literature and Physics
- ▶ Stylistics as the Language-Literature Interface
- ▶ Music Cognition, Speech Cognition, and Emotion in Speech and Music
- ▶ Linguistics and Language Technology
- ▶ Utterance, Intonation, and Emotion
- ▶ Translation and Interpretation Studies
- ▶ Film and Performance Studies
- ▶ Quantum Humanities
- ▶ Digital Humanities
- ▶ Ecocriticism
- ▶ The Role of Literature in ELT Practices
- ▶ Philosophy of Language
- ▶ Philosophy of Mind
- ▶ Dynamics of Power and Culture
- ▶ Meaning-Making and Contemporary Dialogue
- ▶ Resistance and Contemporary Dissent

The list above is indicative rather than exhaustive. We welcome original submissions that explore other significant intersections between literature, language, science, technology, culture, philosophy, and society.

“We seek original and intellectually engaging work that expands conventional approaches to literature and language and opens new conversations across disciplinary boundaries. Contributions may employ literary, linguistic, scientific, philosophical, cultural, technological, or interdisciplinary methodologies.”

IMPORTANT DATES

Submission Deadline:

10th October 2026

Notification of Acceptance:

15th October 2026

WE WELCOME A DIVERSE RANGE OF SUBMISSIONS

- Research Papers: 2500–4000 words
- Book & Cinema Reviews: 1500–2500 words
- Open Letters & Special Articles that challenge, inspire, and engage with contemporary intellectual and cultural dialogue

All submissions should be original, well-researched, and appropriate to the scope of the journal.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS (FORMAT: DOCX)

- A 250-word abstract
- A short biography of the author
- A plagiarism report

ARTICLE REVIEWING & PROCESSING FEES

Students (UG & PG):	INR 250/-
Research Scholars:	INR 500/-
Faculty Members:	INR 1000/-

TLS is a not-for-profit initiative, and all contributions support the journal's maintenance and growth.

HOW TO SUBMIT

- 1 Visit the journal's online submission system at theliteraryscientist.org
- 2 Create an account.
- 3 Follow the submission process and upload your manuscript along with the required documents.

SCAN TO VISIT OUR WEBSITE

Stay connected with the latest updates, calls, and publications.

The Literary Scientist

A Multidisciplinary Journal for Literature and Science

Volume II, Issue I | 2026 | ISSN (Online): 3048-7366

Literature

Science

Culture

Humanities